POLICY: SIGNS ON TOWN PROPERTY

POLICY

The Town of Easton, through the Board of Selectman, affirms its authority to control the use of Town-owned land, including Town road rights-of-way. Therefore, permission is required from the Board of Selectmen (or the Board of Education in the case of school grounds) to erect signs on Town Property. Planning and Zoning regulations will dictate whether a sign also requires a Zoning permit.

PROCEDURES

Signs illegally posted on Town property will be removed and discarded without notice. The Town bears no responsibility to store signs.

Private signs on Town land will generally not be permitted, however, people or organizations wishing to erect a sign should contact the First Selectman. Planning and Zoning permission may be required.

Town departments may post reasonably sized signs in close proximity to the buildings they occupy. (e.g. within a few feet of the Library or EMS building). Planning and Zoning permission may be required.

Town departments wishing to post signs on town property not proximate to their facilities must receive permission from the Board of Selectmen. Planning and Zoning approval may be required.

Signs posted on roadside Town property for not more than five days prior to a specific event will generally be tolerated.

For Sale signs posted on roadside Town property advertising the sale or lease of that property will generally be tolerated. Planning and Zoning permission may be required.

After Labor Day, political signs on roadside Town land will not be disturbed as long as they are not excessive in size or number. In addition, political signs connected to a town-wide voting event will not be disturbed two weeks before the event. Signs should be taken down immediately after the election or event.

In accordance with state law, the Tree Warden will remove all signs attached to Town trees or utility poles (see attached memo).

The Town, in its sole discretion, may remove from Town land any signs it deems hazardous, excessive, or in poor taste.
