Town Looking For Input On Regulations

EASTON –The Planning and Zoning Commission has scheduled a public information meeting to get input from Easton residents regarding the update of the zoning regulations. The zoning regulations contain key requirements and guidelines for land use and development in the Town.

The Commission has been working for the past year on updating the regulations and is seeking comments and input from residents. The draft regulations are posted on the Town website at www.eastonct.gov.

The meeting is scheduled for:

Monday June 27, 2016

7:00 PM

Cafetorium @ Helen Keller Middle School - 360 Sport Hill Road

The meeting will provide an opportunity for Easton residents to learn about the regulation update and provide comments and feedback. Following the public meeting, the Planning and Zoning Commission will further review and refine the regulations.

Residents are encouraged to come to the meeting to help ensure that the Regulations consider issues important to residents. "The regulations are important documents which are used to guide land use and development activities", said Robert Maquat, Chair of the Planning and Zoning Commission.
