

Climate Activism: Toward a Greener Community & a Greener World

Sunday, January 31 at 2pm

As a recently trained leader with the Climate Reality Project (founded by Al Gore), Presenter Suzanne Solensky will review the science and impacts of climate change. She will also discuss solutions, including renewable energy and community-level efforts to respect and preserve the natural environment. Let's explore the paths toward a greener, healthier, more livable planet for all!

Suzanne Solensky is an educator, writer, and administrator with a long-standing commitment to mission-driven institutions. After specializing in science and health, she has made a career in higher education, whether as an adjunct faculty member or as an academic administrator and advisor. She has recently pivoted into consulting and volunteering with nonprofit organizations.
